

SCORCHED EARTH
BROKEN LIVES

01.12 - 02.26

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

LIMA

SCORCHED EARTH, BROKEN LIVES

BY SASHA MASLOV

Farmer Family Gallery
The Ohio State University at Lima
January 12 — February 26, 2023
Reception January 26, 4-6 p.m.

War doesn't knock on your door asking if it can come in.

It doesn't warn you what will happen to your life,
your family, your community, your town,
or your country.

It won't tell you what your future will look like.

It destroys everything;
it takes everything away from you without warning.

It gives you one thing in return:
the chance to fight back.

Ukrainians chose to fight back. Since February 24, 2022, millions of people in Ukraine have resisted Russia's invasion of their country. Some streamed toward new front lines that stretched hundreds of kilometers on sea, land, and air. Some have chosen to dedicate their skills, whatever they might be, to help the country resist. This exhibit is a record of the sacrifice Ukrainians are making and the devastating effect the war has brought to the lives of Ukrainian communities all over the country.

Regular Gallery hours begin January 17
11 a.m.-4 p.m., Monday-Thursday
With further visitation by appointment.
Contact breidenbach.44@osu.edu

Sasha Maslov is a Ukrainian-American portrait photographer and storyteller based in New York City. His work has been exhibited in various photo galleries and art spaces around Europe and the United States. Sasha, a regular contributor to a number of magazines and leading publications in New York and around the globe, is actively pursuing the development of his documentary projects.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

LIMA